

Tamara Johnston

Consultant

Community development in both Tasmania and Victoria for over 13 years, specialising in grass roots development and empowerment.

Project manager for ESP in Northern Tasmania

Long history of working with Aboriginal and CALD families in both community context and family support area.

Has become a community advocate, assisting with processes to develop collaborative practice among a variety of partners giving understanding to groups and strategies to move forward at all times.

Tamara has a practical knowledge that crosses over many sectors but is always focussed on the best outcome for children, whether engagement in schools, mentoring programs, creating positive pathways to community and assisting people to reframe their life views to create change for a better future.
